1911 Census: The census page for Woodwells Farm has been badly damaged, but close scrutiny show that with the addition of another of their children, the same family members were living at Woodwells as in 1901. Those listed in order of age (no ages given) being: Thomas, Elizabeth his wife, and 6 of their children Thomas, Joseph, James, Elizabeth, Ernest & Jane. Thomas Senior & Elizabeth are shown as having been married for 44 years, to have 9 children, all of whom are still living.

SUMMARY OF LAND IN LEVERSTOCK GREEN BELONGING TO THE GORHAMBURY ESTATE, 1768.

Name of Property	Owner (Copyhold if not Lord of Manor)	Tenant Farmer/Occupier	Overall Size
Lawrence Farm, otherwise Bottom House (off Green	Sir John Filmer	Thomas Orchard	87a 2r 13p
Lane)

1785 - Thomas Orchard is registered as having being the overseer of Poor Law provision in the parish of St. Michael for this year, 1795, 1806, 1816 and 1832. In 1860 the Rev. Thomas Orchard is noted as being the Baptist Church minister in Leverstock Green. I cannot help wondering if they were from the same family In addition, a Thomas Orchard held Lawrence Farm, which was (if only just), within the parish of St. Michael's. [ S167, p.153]

16<sup>th &</sup> 30th April 1792 - Thomas Orchard was admitted as tenant upon the death of his father another Thomas Orchard (see entry for 1821) to the property now known as No 4 Church Cottages. [5406]

19™ Century:

Associated with Great & Little Coxpond Farms: were Paul and Philip Vaillant [HALS AH177] The Duchess of Bridgewater [Hemel Hempstead Tithe Survey 1840]; James Stewart [AH 682/683] Joseph Camfield [D/EX 7 T1]; Thomas L. Associated with Lawrence Farm (Bottom House): were the Orchard family and the Earl of Verulam, also Mary Moss, William Fountain and George Smith [1851 census]

Associated with Woodwells Farm were: Thomas Orchard & family, Esther Gargess & Edward Parkins. [1881 census]; Charles Orchard & family, James Lee, George & William Abbott [1851 census]

Assuming it is cottage and gardens no 238 on the St. Michael's Tithe, then 33 years after Charlotte made her sketch, (1807) the property was owned and occupied by Thomas Orchard. [This an extract re the cottage on the green which later became White cottage and was sketched by Charlotte Grimston]

2nd July 1821- Thomas Orchard died seised of "All that Messuage or Tenement seized of all that messuage or tenement with the Orchard & Garden thereunto belonging situate and being at Leverstock Green within the said Manor then in the tenure or occupation of the Widow Hawkins held of the Lord of the Manor by the annual rent of 1/6 to which he was admitted at Court held for said Manor on 16th & 30th April 1792 as the only son and heir of Thomas Orchard deceased." This was present day No 4 Church Cottages. [S406]

22nd June 1827 – Joseph Orchard was admitted as the copyholder of the original Church Cottage (Now No 4) at an annual quit rent of 1/6d. Widow Hawkins was held to have been the late occupier.[S406]

July 1842 - William Ivey, alias Ivory, and James Dell, both labourers from Hemel Hempstead parish, were brought to trial at the Midsummer sessions of the County Court, for stealing horses from Daniel Franks of Boxmoor, Charles Orchard of Woodwells Farm, and Mark Pattison of Wood Lane End Farm. Ivey and Dell were acquitted. [S59]

At the beginning of the tithe record the principal holdings were listed along with their owners and occupiers and the "quantity" of the land. This information relevant to Leverstock Green is given in the following table.

1843 St. Michael's Tithe Survey

The surveyor for the St. Michael's Tithe map was John Goodman of St. Stephen's, in St. Albans. In some ways the survey is of a different character to that of Hemel Hempstead; this is largely because the vast bulk of the land that falls within our area of study, and which is included in the survey, belonged to the then Earl of Verulam. In addition to this, the land itself was farmed by only a few principal tenants: George Cawdrey, Joseph Finch (Corner Farm & Blackwater Farm), Daniel Headech (Westwick Row Farm), George Danes (Westwick Hall), Thomas Orchard (Bottom House), Thomas Hollingshead (Breakspears & Megdells). Joseph Finch also owned some of his own land and property in the area, and both he and George Danes were land owners in the part of Hemel Hempstead parish within our study area. Landuse was generally categorised as either Arable of Grass, with occasional Wood.

1907 - At about this time (certainly before 1911 when this account was first published), the following account of the state of worship at the Baptist Chapel in Bedmond Road was made. Hovever, the text is referring to the mid 19th century when the Chapel was established:

"As to the branch at Leverstock Green, the work progressed favourably, with thankful remembrance of when the lithe cause was advantaged by the Orchard family, then resident at Well Farm and Harthall Farm nearby. At that period the preaching was mainly sustained by the three Orchard brothers - Thomas, Alfred and Stephen. Likewise brethren Wilkins, and Heling with their families, rendered faithful service. There too was in Elder Squires a fine venerable sample of village nonconformity - patriarchal in the little band, the G.O.M. of the chapel. The services were conducted by a staff of brethren and by Mr.B.T. Parris, the church secretary, a preacher much sought by many churches and the popular sector of West Herts School Unions." [ S49 ]
